ABSTRACT

This directory of New York State library systems is arranged alphabetically by name of the reference and research library resources system, with public library systems located within the area of such regional system immediately following. State institution libraries are listed at the end of each regional grouping. The locations of reference and research resources library systems and public library systems are indicated by maps and an index of counties. This directory contains most of the information formerly found in the two separate systems directories, as well as the directory information included in "Institution Library Statistics/1975." FOREWORD

This directory inaugurates a new approach to continuing two former systems directories which until now have been published in parallel, but separate, editions. The emphasis on regionalism and library planning and programming across types of libraries and library systems suggested that it was time for a combined systems directory, even though limited editorial staff time precluded complete revision.

Most of the information that users have found in former editions of A Directory of New York State Public Library Systems and A Directory of Reference and Research Library Resources Systems in New York State has been retained in this combined edition. Wherever possible, the accustomed format for presenting such information also has been retained. However, certain concessions were necessary to produce this first transitional edition, since the two former directories were not completely similar in scope, date, or detail of data. Further, the limited and likewise dissimilar directory information formerly included in Institution Library Statistics/1975 has been incorporated in this publication, to indicate the geographic and programatic relationship of major institution libraries within the library regions of New York State.

It is planned that future editions of this new combined directory will be designed to present a greater similarity of entry format for all systems. It is possible that more detailed information about individual libraries will be presented in supplementary publications to prevent the systems directory becoming too bulky.

Comments of users on this first effort to present in a single publication information about libraries and library systems in New York State, regardless of type, will be helpful in shaping future publications.
